ARMY INSTITUTE OF FASHION& DESIGN,
BANGALORE

1. A Brief Introduction to the Institute

If you are ready to jumpstart your career in the fashion field you can count on the Army Institute of Fashion & Design (AIFD) for an incomparable educational experience. The Institute was established in Bangalore in 2004 under the aegis of Army Welfare Education Society (AWES) to impart quality education in the field of Fashion and Design to the wards of Army Personnel both serving and retired.

AIFD is located in NagareshwaraNagenahalli, Kothanur Post, Bangalore – 560077, a fast growing part of Bangalore East, easily accessible to the airport, with several prestigious educational institutes and housing projects in the near vicinity.

AIFD is not just yet another Fashion Institute in the country. The Institute is well established with several distinguished leaders in the Fashion, Textile and Design industry. It has first and foremost, the invaluable support and backing of AWES.

The endeavor of the management has always been to establish AIFD as one of the leading Centers of Excellence in the teaching of Design, Garment Manufacturing and CAD Technology, Merchandising, Logistics and Textile Sciences. To explore our diverse range of innovative, practical and relevant academic programs, we need students with the commitment and zeal to succeed and burgeoning leadership qualities. So come discover an atmosphere of academic excellence focused on both academic and professional goals.

2. Why Fashion Designing?

Fashion Design is THE career of the future. With the internet and social media invading everyday lives, fashion has become a global phenomenon; constantly changing and evolving. It requires special people with ingenuity, creativity and will to design. Good training is absolutely imperative for one to create designer apparel that is truly unique.

Fashion is not just designing and creating clothes, there are several career choices affiliated to this field. Fashion Illustration, Garment Manufacturing, Merchandising and Apparel Management, Fabric Dyeing, CAD-CAM and Textile Science all put together, make a comprehensive course in Fashion designing. The courses are programmed to provide students from diverse backgrounds a professional and hands-on training in Fashion Designing and related technical subjects, for their recognition in the international scenario along with huge growth prospects in the domestic industry. Our Fashion Designing Programme attempts to inculcate visual and aesthetic sensitivity by understanding values that embody fashion. The EMPHASIS is placed on Professionalism, Specialization, Expertise and Design Excellence to create FASHION PROFESSIONALS.

3. Fashion Design as a career

(a) What is Fashion?

Fashion is a social phenomenon that is common to several spheres of human activity. It is more apparent and well documented in the fields of Art, Culture and Architecture among others. However, with the common man the word Fashion is invariably associated with clothing and a good dash of glitz and glamour.

So then, what is Fashion? It is generally considered to be the prevailing trend introduced by well known celebrities and followed by the majority of society at any given period of time. It is the “style” or statement created by designers and adopted by the consumer who in today’s world wants to think and look fashionable. Various Elements and Principles of Design like colour, value, line, texture and silhouette, along with the intensive knowledge of textiles, merchandising, manufacturing and retail contributes to this very wide field. Therefore, fashion is not only about clothes, it’s about adapting to a rapidly changing and an extremely dynamic scenario to help develop one’s personality and surrounding.

(b) How does a fashion designer work?

Fashion designers can work in a number of ways. They may work for a Fashion House or Retail Industry, where they are known as in-house designers. They may work alone or as part of a team. Freelance designers work for themselves, and sell their designs to fashion houses, directly to shops, or to clothing manufacturers. The garments bear the buyers label. Some fashion designers are entrepreneurs and set up their own labels, under which their designs are marketed. Some fashion designers are self-employed and design for individual clients. Other high-fashion designers cater to specialty stores or high-fashion department stores. Most fashion designers, however, work for apparel manufacturers, creating designs for the mass market. Large designer brands which have a 'name' as their brand such as Calvin Klein, Gucci, Ralph Lauren, or Coco Chanel are likely to be designed by a team of individual designers under the direction of a design director.

(c) Designing a Collection

A fashion collection is something that designers put together each season (or Fashion week) to show their idea of new trends in both their high end couture range as well as their mass market range.

(d) Designing Garments

Fashion designers work in different ways. Some sketch their ideas on paper, while others drape fabric on a dress form. It is only when a designer is completely satisfied with the fit of the toile (or muslin), that he or she will consult a professional pattern maker who then makes the finished, working version of the pattern out of card. The pattern maker's job is very precise and painstaking. The fit of the finished garment depends on their accuracy. Finally, a sample garment is made up and tested on a model.

4. Types of Fashion

There are several categories of fashion design, mostly positioned according to their price points or brand image.

(a) Haute Couture

Until the 1950s, fashion clothing was predominantly designed and manufactured on a made-to-measure or haute couture basis (French for high-fashion), with the garment being created for a specific client. A couture garment is made to order for an individual customer, and is usually made from high-quality, expensive fabric, sewn with extreme attention to detail and finish, often using time-consuming, hand-executed techniques. Designers and Design Houses like Giorgio Armani and Christian Dior create both couture and designer clothes.

(b) Ready-to-Wear

Prêt or ready-to-wear clothes refer to clothes that are available in high street or up market stores. The customer can walk in and buy them “off the rack”. They are generally no alterations as they are readily available in several size options. While they are not for made specifically for individual customers, great care is taken while following fashion forecasts and in the choice and cut of the fabric. Ready-to-wear collections are usually presented by fashion houses each season during a period known as Fashion Week. This takes place on a city-wide basis and occurs twice a year.

(c) Mass Produced

Currently the fashion industry relies more on mass market sales. The mass market caters for a wide range of customers, producing ready-to-wear clothes in large quantities and standard sizes. Cheap materials creatively used, produce affordable fashion. Mass market designers generally adapt the trends set by the famous names in fashion. They often wait around a season to make sure a style is going to catch on before producing their own versions of the original look. In order to save money and time, they use cheaper fabrics and simpler production techniques which can easily be done by machine. The end product can therefore be sold much more affordably. The downside of mass fashion is that fashion leaders will be following new trends by then.

5. Areas of Fashion Design

Many professional fashion designers start off by specializing in a particular area of fashion. The smaller and the more specific the market, the more likely a company is to get the right look and feel to their clothes. It is also easier to establish oneself in the fashion industry if a company establishes a brand image. Once a fashion company becomes established (that is, has regular buyers and is well-known by both the trade and the public), it may decide to expand into a new area. If the firm has made a name for the clothes it already produces, this helps to sell the new line. It is usually safest for a company to expand into an area similar to the one it already knows. For example, a designer of women's sportswear might expand into men's sportswear.

6. Growth of Fashion Scenario in the Indian market

Fashion industry in India is now developing rapidly due to the constant support of the Ministry of Textiles. The scenario is encouraging and with every passing year new designers/fashion professionals are arriving on the fashion scene. It may be in the world of modeling, designing, photography or trend forecasting. Indian designers are opening new horizons, setting fresh goals and are now proving their mettle on the ramp and the apparel industry in India. Textile and Apparel industry is the second largest industry in India and employing more than 4 million people. India is the 4th largest apparel supplier to the world. The Indian Retail Industry is growing at an impressive rate

7. How Can The Army Institute of Fashion & Design Fill The Gap?

Though, in the last decade, competition has been tough, India has shown considerable progress in the field of Fashion & Design. Fashion Designers such as Ritu Beri, Rina Dhaka, Ritu Kumar, Rohit Bal, Suneet Verma, Manish Malhotra and Manish Arora have already made their presence felt at the international level. Fashion is not just about being creative, but is also a technical field. It is also imperative that the designer is finely tuned into the needs of a market whether prêt or haute couture. AIFD has therefore collaborated with the best in the Industry. The Institute does not just follow the curriculum set by the Bangalore University, but also provides additional information to the student by means of specialized lectures, workshops and interactions with the industry. The student is encouraged to innovate and excel in all aspects. This is especially possible because the Institute has excellent infrastructure, including state of art labs with the latest equipment.

8. AIFD Achievements in 2014

2014 has been a great year for AIFD. AIFD is proud to state that we have been recognized by the University of Mysore as a "Centre of Excellence" for PG Studies. The first batch of Masters in Fashion and Apparel Design course was started in Aug 2014. Our UG students have bagged ranks at the University level since 2008, when our first batch appeared for the examinations. Last year, we are proud to say that our students bagged 4 ranks out of a possible 10. Our students have won accolades at several design competitions and college festivals. We bagged the third place in the prestigious Deccan Herald Metro Fashion Show as well as a slew of first prizes in several competitions.

9. Facilities at AIFD

GARMENT TECHNOLOGY LAB:

There are two labs with 30 state of the art industrial sewing machines each, one on the ground floor and the other on the first. Students are given hands on training on these machines. In addition there are computerized sewing machines for doing specialized work. Both labs are attached to Patternmaking labs stocked with patternmaking tables and several types of dress forms, enabling the student to both draft patterns or drape their designs on the dress forms. The embroidery machine allows students to conceptualize their motifs on the computer and realize the patterns with as many as sixteen different colours at the same time.

CAD / CAM LAB:

The CAD Lab has over 50 PC systems including 30 PC systems exclusively for design application with software's like – REACH Fashion Studio, Photo Shop and Corel Draw which enhance manual illustration skills of the students. The remaining 20 PC systems are earmarked for specialized training in GERBER, CAD and ERP (Enterprise Resource Planning). Since last year the Institute is also offering MOCKSHOP, a specialized software for Visual Merchandising, a key career of the future. Institute is also subscribing to Style sight, an online fashion forecasting service to train and equip the students with the very latest input into current news in the fashion world

QUALITY CONTROL LAB:

The QC lab has the facilities to conduct all quality tests for fibre, yarn, fabric, garments and accessories. All high end machines as per industry specifications have been installed in the lab and the students are trained on all machines so that they can take up the responsibilities immediately after they join industry.

DYEING & FINISHING LAB:

This lab has Chemical testing facilities to train the students in identification of materials, yarn dyeing, sample fabric dyeing and printing. The lab consists of a latest 12 kg capacity fabric and garment dyeing machine, Hydro extractor, tumbler dryer and a Brushing Robot Machine(Vertical type) for denim trouser finishing as per user requirements

GARMENT PROCESSING LAB:

The Industry is working towards reducing the lead time of delivery. The Institute has state of the art technology to train students on garment dyeing and finishing.

LIBRARY:

The Institute Library is well equipped with several books & Journals covering fashion, textiles, apparel, computers & management. It is also equipped with wi-fi internet connectivity and reprographic and scanning facilities. AIFD subscribes to several international & national magazines and journals.
