Foreword

The global education scenario has undergone tremendous change in recent years. One dimension of this drastic change is the advent of Biological Sciences and subjects coming under the Arts and Commerce faculty on par with the Physical Sciences, which dominated the education and technology platforms of the 19th and 20th centuries. It is realized that an all-round development of all subjects would auger well for the growth of nations and world at large. This realization has promoted the HRD of Government of India and UGC to encourage novel courses that would not only attract young and talented towards the important but hitherto sidelined courses, with a purpose to develop human resource base of expertise in all fields. As we are all aware this move is welcomed by all the academicians of the country and also the National Knowledge Commission. A new wave of awareness coupled with affirmative program of action is the need of the hour.

Towards the above goal, Bangalore University has started Integrated PG Courses with a purpose of attracting youngsters (at +2 level) and also train them as competent human resource base for the future academic and professional needs of the country. The response of the students for these courses has been very encouraging.

The Prospectus for the year 2016-17 provides all the necessary information regarding these novel courses. I wish the students well in their quest for excellence through these courses.

I extend a warm welcome to Bangalore University.

Bangalore University located in the Garden City of Bangalore aptly hailed as the “IT capital of India” was established in July 1964 as an offshoot of the University of Mysore, primarily to include institutions of Higher learning located in the metropolitan city of Bangalore and the Districts of Bangalore Rural, Kolar. Initially, the two premier colleges of the city, the Central College(CC) and the University Visvesvarayya College of Engineering formed the nucleus of the Bangalore University. Soon after the establishment of the Bangalore University, as a first step in the reorganization of courses of instructions, the University introduced Honours courses in the year 1965-66. Three-year honours courses in Botany, Chemistry, Economics, English, Geology, Kannada, Mathematics and Zoology which were conducted only at the University postgraduate departments, attracted many brilliant students. All honours-passed students were admitted to post-graduate courses on priority and B.A., B.Sc. graduates who marginally missed admission to the postgraduate courses were given an opportunity to join the final year honours course and seek admission to post-graduate courses thereafter. Since 1964, Bangalore University has grown both in size and strength to include a large number of affiliated colleges, P.G. Centres of research and a rich diversity of programme options. In consonance with this expansion, in 1973 the University moved into a new campus ‘Jnana Bharathi’ (JB) located on sprawling 1,100 acres of land and shifted many of its post-graduate departments to this newly established campus. At present, the JB Campus houses the administrative office, a large number of post-graduate departments, Directorates, Centres of higher learning, Gandhi Bhavan, Ambedkar Bhavan, NSS Bhavan, Outdoor Stadium and other support services. The Central College Campus retained as the city campus, houses the main examination wing with the office of Registrar Evaluation, city offices of the Vice-Chancellor, Registrar(Examination part), Finance, Academic Staff College, Directorate of Correspondence Courses and Distance Education Centre, Directorate of College Development Council, a few postgraduate departments and support services.

Besides, the college also has the Central College Cricket Pavilion where the Karnataka State Cricket Association was first established and trained several cricketers of International repute. Apart from this, in the vicinity of the city campus, the University has two constituent colleges, the University Visvesvarayya College of Engineering (U.V.C.E started in 1917). The third constituent college, the University College of Physical Education (formerly known as the Government College of Physical Education, started in 1959) is located in the JB Campus. Since 1973, the University is functioning from both the campuses- the main campus at Jnana Bharathi and the City Campus at Central College.

Bangalore University has completed fifty one years of fruitful existence and has come to be hailed as one of the largest Universities of Asia. Though originally intended to be a federal university, it has eventually emerged as an affiliating University. The University has been accredited in 2008 by NAAC and has received 'A' Grade Status. Academically, the University is structured into Six faculties- Arts, Science, Commerce and Management, Education, Law and Engineering. It has 50 post-graduate departments, One post-graduate Centre at Kolar, (started during 1994-95), Three constituent colleges, around 656 affiliated colleges (of which 88 have PG courses) and several other Centers and Directorates of higher learning and research under its purview. At present the University offers 60 Post- graduate courses.

From the Academic year 2007-08, the University has imparting higher quality 5 year Integrated education for PUC passed students. The Bangalore University has achieved a milestone by establishing MoU's with 27 Universities and Institutions of national and international repute. To cater to a student population of over 3.6 lakhs, the University has constantly striven to maintain quality and efficiency in higher education. The vision of the University is to make distinctive and significant contributions to the cause of higher education in humanities, Science and Technology. The University is striving to provide quality teaching and encourage research in frontier areas and with social relevance that would reflect its mission and goals aptly symbolized by its emblem- JNANAM VIGNANA SAHITHAM.
