Course Title: Communicative Skills and Basic German – II; Exercises in German Grammar – II

Course Credits: 2 x 5

Course Level: B.A.-I (2nd semester)

Course-in-Charge: Dr. Shambhavi Prakash; co-teachers: Saurabh Divekar; Dr. Mercy V.Guite

Course Contents: This semester's course will continue with the introduction to basic grammatical structures of the German language, along with regular phonetics training sessions in the Language Lab. While students will continue to develop their listening and speaking skills through this course, this semester will entail a particular focus on cultivating their German reading and writing skills. By the end of the course, students will be able to negotiate reading and discussing (in written and spoken German) simple texts in German of genres ranging from fairy tales, short stories, newspaper articles, interviews, etc. Through these texts, the course will employ a comparative approach to also develop cultural awareness and intercultural skills. Some of the main grammatical concepts covered will include simple past, past perfect, and future tense, subordinate clauses, indirect speech, the subjunctive, reflexive verbs, coordinating and subordinating conjunctions, and passive voice. Course material for this semester is in the form of an anthology of texts in German belonging to various genres and covering themes such as fairy tales, school and education, fall of the Berlin wall, media, environment, etc. The reader includes grammar exercises and will be supplemented by additional material which shall be provided to students during the course of the semester.

Course Evaluation: Sessional Tests will be held every two to three weeks and will include written as well as oral components. Active participation: 10%; Home & Class Assignments (including self-corrections): 20%; Sessional Tests: 20%

End Semester Examination: Written + Oral: 50%

Course Title: Introduction to Translation-II
Course-in-charge: Priyada Padhye
Course Credits: 3

Course Contents: The course deals with translation of texts from German into English. Students will be required to translate texts that necessitate background reading with a view to broadening their existing knowledge base which will in turn help them understand the texts better. Practice will be given in applying relevant research aids while translating.

This course further seeks to develop the competence of textual comprehension amongst students. In order to achieve this end the students will be sensitized to the textual and stylistic features of the texts that are to be translated. Students will be introduced to important textual devices and their importance in translation will be illustrated. Towards this end will be introduced texts which encapsulate typical textual and stylistic features.

Texts which demonstrate a specific macrostructure and are governed by certain specific textual as well as linguistic and stylistic norms will be introduced and students will be encouraged to identify such features and undertake a contrastive analysis of such text types in the German and the English language.

The concept of 'register' will be introduced to demonstrate language 'in-use'.

A wide range of texts will be dealt with in the course
