Q.3. Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions given at the end –

_____ A cheerful person is always more disposed to be happy than miserable. He tends to look at the bright side of things and thus often derives pleasure from circumstances which would ordinarily sadden a person. A cheerful beggar is happier than a low spirited millionaire. As a source of happiness neither wealth nor fame nor beauty nor power nor even health can be compared even for a moment with cheerful temperament. A great advantage of cheerfulness is that it enables man to do his work more efficiently and prevents him from being easily exhausted. The labourer who whistles over his work goes home less tired and can work harder than another who broods over real or imaginary troubles.

Question –

- i. Who is more happy ?
- ii. What is the tendency of a cheerful person ?
- iii. What can not be compared with cheerful moment ?
- iv. Pick out the suffix used in the following words. ____
  - a). happiness _____
  - b) Cheerful _____
